What is a trust?

A trust is simply a way in which a person gives assets to another person to look after for the benefit of, usually, someone else although under the Flexible Trust the person setting up the trust may also benefit. It allows the intended beneficiary to benefit from those assets without also giving that person control of them. The asset in this case is a life policy but it could be almost anything.

Setting up a trust

A trust is usually set up by a written statement of what you are doing. Whatever is written in the document creating the trust, together with the general principles of trust law, governs who will look after the trust assets (in this case the Policy), how they will do it and for whose benefit they will hold them. The person who creates the trust will not usually be a beneficiary of it.

Explanatory Notes

The Explanatory Notes provided throughout this document should be read before the trust document is completed.
